Ruggell is the northernmost community in Liechtenstein. Liechtenstein consists of eleven local communities with over 37'000 inhabitants.

While Liechtenstein is largely known as a mountainous country, Ruggell is largely flat and is situated along the Rhine River, where it meets the international borders of Switzerland and Austria.

Because of its flat topography, Ruggell is very often called «Fahrraddorf» (cycle village).

One day in the year (first Sunday in May), the streets in Ruggell and surrounding areas are closed for the motorised transport - only cyclists, inline skaters and pedestrians are allowed in this zone. This event is called „slowUp“.

Ruggell – surrounded by the beauty and power of nature.

The Ruggeller Riet Nature Reserve is a haven of peace and tranquility on the valley floor.

The peat-rich Ruggeller Riet Nature Reserve covers an area of 90 hectares in the northernmost region of Liechtenstein. Its rich variety of local fauna and, in particular, flora makes it a fascinating region - perfect for nature lovers.

Lowland moors, ponds, hedges, trees and litter and meagre meadows provide an ideal habitat for many endangered animals and plants. Even the stork has returned to the region. The spectacular blossom of the Siberian iris in late May and early June is an annual highlight and transforms large areas of the nature reserve in a carpet of blue.

Visit of Hereditary Prince Alois and Hereditary Princess Sophie last summer (2015) in Ruggell.

Many white storks make their nests in our nature reserve and accompanied the princely couple last summer on a tracking tour in Ruggell, accompanied by all mayors of Liechtenstein.
